ARTIST BIO

The Ramblin' Years blend stunning vocal harmonies, crisp guitars, soaring saxophone, and a slamming rhythm section to create their unique brand of country-fried rock n' roll. In the past 5 years they have grown from packing Seattle U parties to selling out venues like the Tractor Tavern, playing Seattle festivals such as Macefield Music Festival and Northwest Folklife, and touring the west coast.

ALBUM STORY

The Ramblin' Years are proud to present their 3rd record, "Halfway Somewhere," recorded at Fastback Studios with producer & engineer Jason Lackie. Featuring Bill Nordwall on keys, formerly of Seattle favorite, Exohxo, and Jay Kardong on Pedal Steel, who has played with Brandi Carlile, Sera Cahoone, and The Swearengens.

"Halfway Somewhere" was mastered by Ed Brooks, whose resume includes Pearl Jam, Brandi Carlile, Death Cab for Cutie, The Head and the Heart, the Shins, and many more. If you are looking for some real deal rock n' roll and a good time, this is the show to see.
